Minneapolis
Park & Recreation Board

The Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board has approved a proposed new park in Towerside Innovation District and the Prospect Park neighborhood at 29th Ave and Green 4th Street. This park has a master plan that was approved in the East of the River Park Master Plan. This is the first park that will be formed with park dedication fees, and the first park in the MPRB system that will utilize community garden plots.

An engaged design process is underway right now to finalize the site plans as well as name recommendations for the park. Get in touch with MPRB to share your thoughts on the design, or fill out this online survey about uses of the park space, aesthetic details, community garden size, and of course the name by May 20th!

While the site is under construction this summer we'll be looking back at its 5-year history of catalyzing neighborhood engagement and conversations about art, food, public space, and community development.

Before that - join us on Monday, May 13th from 4:30-6:30pm for a Park Design Open House at the future park site!

The Illusion of Choice: Evictions and Profit in North Minneapolis

Please join the Center for Urban and Regional Affairs \(CURA\) for "The Illusion of Choice: Evictions and Profit in North Minneapolis"

Single Black mothers face the highest risk of evictions in the United States. In Hennepin County, close to 50% of all eviction filings take place in two zip codes in North Minneapolis, despite the fact that they contain just 8% of all rental units in the city. Driven by community feedback, The Illusion of Choice: Evictions & Profit in North Minneapolis project aims to answer the question of why and how evictions are taking place from the perspectives of tenants and landlords themselves. CURA believes this is central to the successful development of public policy solutions and new programmatic interventions for those tenants negatively affected by evictions, as well as landlords who value sustaining positive relationships with the communities in which they are investors.

Date: Thursday, May 30, 2019 - 3:30pm - 6:30pm
